

For Employment & Training Services

Supporting job readiness, transitions, and sustained employment.

Give Job Seekers a Voice and a Plan

Circletalk is a secure, participant-led app that helps individuals with disability and neurodiverse conditions prepare for work, communicate their support needs, and stay connected as their circumstances change.

Used across School Leaver Employment Supports (SLES), Disability Employment Services (DES), and training programs, Circletalk ensures key information is shared accurately and easily—without starting from scratch at every step.

Why Circletalk

-  Helps job seekers present their strengths and support needs in their own words
-  Supports smoother onboarding and job matching
-  Reduces repetition during handovers between services
-  Helps track readiness goals, preferences, and tools used
-  Enables supported decision-making and greater independence

Built for Workforce Transitions

-  Use during transitions from school, TAFE, or community training into employment
-  Assist in preparing for interviews and employer meetings
-  Share communication preferences, sensory considerations, or mobility needs in advance
-  Make sure the right supports are in place on day one

Features & Functionality

-  Controlled by the job seeker (18+) or their carer
-  Participants share only what's needed—via view-only access to trusted professionals for free
-  Update goals, strengths, and supports in real time
-  Remove or re-invite supporters as services change
-  Emergency or escalation plans (if desired)
-  Uses name or how the person identifies, and year of birth only

Where do I start?

This service is available to participants as a self-funded subscription, or funded through NDIS support plans. It comes with a one-off annual fee of $390 AUD. Workers can unsubscribe and rejoin at any time, making it a flexible option as work circumstances change.

-  Recommend participants to download Circletalk on the App Store or Google Play
